Park's CHOICE ANNUAL PHLOX

PHLOX DRUMMONDII

This is one of our best annual flowers. At the North, plants should be started in beds or boxes and transplanted, but in the South the seeds may be sown in Spring or Fall where plants are to bloom. They mostly re-seed, and cover the ground with volunteer plants. They like rather sandy, rich soil, and will grow in any garden. Seedlings begin to bloom when small and continue throughout the season. The bright flowers in many colors and variegations appear in big broad clusters. A carpet bed of the plants in special colors makes a glorious display. We offer choice new-crop seeds of the finest races, and can supply the colors separately or all in special mixture. They are hardy annuals, can be sown early.

Phlox Gigantea Rosy Morn

1852 - 1935

True patriotism involves faith in ourselves, our government, our country and our God, and the will to do our share in constructive activity toward making this land of ours a better, more wholesome and beautiful place for living.

TO GARDENING AMERICANS:

Dear Friends:

We welcome you and hope that you will accept our most cordial invitation to come with us through yon garden gate. Let these pages bring you tidings of new beauty for your garden, and to us a new or renewed friendship with you through flowers.

This business was founded because my Father loved flowers so much that he wanted everyone, whether rich in this world's goods or not, to have the opportunity to be wealthy in the beauty of flowers. This he did by obtaining the very best flower seed he could find by testing and experimentation, and traveling; and offering you a choice of 3000 varieties at a price that anyone can afford. He was and we are able to do this only by selling a large volume at a very small margin of profit. Park's for quality in stock and service.

We are happy to announce that, although some of our sources of supply have been cut off by the European war, we have been able to obtain a large list from American Growers. In selecting our stock, we have kept our quality standards at the same high level, and, as always: Our chief pride is in the vitality of the seed themselves, a practice which has made THE GEORGE W. PARK SEED COMPANY esteemed throughout the nation. We guarantee our stock, to the full extent of the purchase price, to be true to name and sure to grow under favorable conditions, but we cannot be responsible for the crop. Park's Seeds, Roots, Tubers, Bulbs and Stock are the best to be procured. Always dependable.

Scarlet Glow

Park's Offering of the BEST in MARIGOLDS

These are free and continuous garden flrs; showy, and of the easiest culture. The African sorts are vigorous erect plants with large flrs and a bed of them is wonderfully showy in Autumn. The French are more slender, the flrs smaller but are equally desirable for beds. Signata Pumila is dwarf, very branching and the small bright flrs are produced in masses during Autumn. New types, new colors, new characteristics are constantly appearing. Three won in the All American Trials for 1941: Spry, Scarlet Glow and Goldsmith.

Water Garden and Rock Garden Notes

The combination of a pool and rock garden is a delight in contemplation and a joy complete in reality. Either or both lend themselves to much variety in plan and choice of plants and, therefore, encourage ingenuity and originality in the gardener. These gardens need not be expensive. Those living in the country have the advantage, often, of a stream that may be utilized by backing up the water into a quiet nook and there making a beauty spot.

Note the group of aquatics which may be started from seeds. Also on page 68 is a splendid collection of ornamental grasses, a number of which will lend attractive background and add charm to this type of garden.

PARK'S FLORAL MAGAZINES

CELOSIA PYRAMIDALIS

The newer, improved varieties of this Celosia are very desirable plants either for beds or pots. The plants grow about two feet high, branch freely, and each branch is tipped with a large, pyramidal plume, varying in color from yellow to glowing crimson. The plants are easily raised from seeds, begin to bloom when small, and increase in beauty as they develop. Seedlings started early and bedded out will, therefore, make a fine bed early in the season, and the display will increase in beauty and attractiveness.

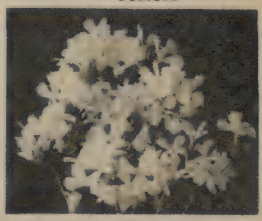
Celosia

GILIA

Among the pretty little hardy annuals for the flower border are the various species and varieties of Gilia. They are native flowers of California, some growing upright and others of a spreading nature. The branches are all tipped with clusters of the delicate and pretty flowers. Sown early in the spring, the plants will begin to bloom in summer and continue until after frost. Gilia tricolor is one of the prettiest. The plants grow about six inches high, the branches spreading and forming a carpet of exquisite, variegated flowers, blue, white and gold. A mixture of different kinds will show a diversity of plants, yielding a wealth of bloom.

LEPTOSYNE

This is a genus of American composite plants allied to Coreopsis, and the species are classed by Benthan and Hooker with Coreopsis. L. maritima grows three feet high, bearing deeply cut foliage and showy yellow flowers. L. Stillmani grows about eighteen inches high and also produces yellow flowers upon long stems. The flowers of both species are excellent for cutting. The plants of L. Stillmani begin to bloom in about five weeks after the seeds are sown, and the flowers should be freely cut to prevent seed formation and prolong the blooming period.



Gilia

ABOUT ESCHSCHOLTZIA

This genus of beautiful Poppyworts was found in the States bordering on the Pacific Ocean, and the various species, which by some botanists are thought to be simple varieties, were introduced in the early part of the last century. The name was given in honor of Dr. J. F. Eschscholtz, a famous German naturalist who lived from 1793 to 1831, and who accompanied Kotzebue, a Russian navigator, in a trip around the world.

The plants are annuals a foot high, easily grown from seeds, which may be sown in the fall in a mild climate, and in the spring where winters are severe. The plants grow quickly, soon stool out into dense-foliaged clumps, above which appear upon long stems the bright, cup-shaped flowers in various colors, from white to crimson, and through the handsome shades of yellow to bright orange.

Leptosyne Maritima

SALPIGLOSSIS

Salpiglossis has a beautiful tubular flower similar in shape to the Petunia. It is of fine texture and the flowers are charmingly penciled in all the rich colors. Plants are easily grown from seeds and should be set about eight inches apart in a bed to make a fine display. They bloom continuously and grow from two to three feet high. The bed should be in a sunny situation, the soil loose and porous and kept free from weeds.

THUNBERGIA ALATA

The winged Thunbergia, Alata, is an annual vine of easy culture found native in South Africa and India. The plants grow six feet high, have pretty green foliage and attractive flowers. They begin to bloom in early summer, and continue to bear flowers freely till frost. In color, the flowers are white, yellow and orange, some varieties plain, and some showing a distinct black eye. Trained upon a trellis, either in the garden or window, they do well and make a fine display. This vine deserves a place at every home, and should not be overlooked when the order for seeds is being prepared.

NIGELLA—MISS JEKYLL

Nigella Damascena is an old garden hardy annual well-known as Love-in-a-mist, and Devil-in-the-bush. The plant is a native of southern Europe, and was brought into cultivation in 1570, since which time it has been generally disseminated. It grows a foot high, branches freely, and bears a large, showy flower at the tip of each branch, surrounded by a finely divided involucre. The most attractive and handsome of the varieties is the new one advertised as Miss Jekyll. The color is a rich, distinct blue, made more pleasing by contrast with the delicate green involucre which veils the petals. The flowers are borne in great abundance, appear well in a bed, and are lovely when cut and used in a bouquet for either room or personal adornment.

THE HERB GARDEN

The Herb Garden, with its delicious and fascinating odors and delicate unassuming blossoms, with its valuable contributions to the needs of the ills of the family, and to the delectable addition in flavor and attractiveness of the daily menu; having been almost forgotten, is again coming into popularity. Today, no garden should be complete without a spot set aside for both the annual and perennial herbs. Only a few perennial plants of a kind are necessary. The annuals should be placed nearby, but in a different bed. Room should be left for easy access in cultivating and gathering.

Many and varied are the uses of herbs: the tastes of the family may be educated into liking the delightful variations in soups, tomato dishes, sandwiches, meats and summer drinks; the appetite may be stimulated by the artistic touch given in the use of sprays of parsley and asparagus, the flowers of nasturtiums and borage and other ingenious arrangements. See Ambrosia, Chervil, Cress, Germander, Nasturtium, Parsley, Rhubarb and Sweet Woodruff in body of Catalogue.

INDEX AND GERMINATION TABLE

WHEN sowing seeds it is always best to divide the packets and sow at different times. Note the time and give good care until the plants have had time to appear. Figures here indicate pages, and letters indicate, as per key, the time needed for germination. Do not condemn seeds until you have given them at least two or three trials. Those marked z will often lie dormant for a year or more. Seeds of Trees and Shrubs should be sown in a retired bed which will not be disturbed for two or three years. Some will start in a reasonable time and can be removed. Germination, however, is variable and more or less tardy.
